A Manutti experience is a moment of joy and cosiness under the sky. Warmth and luxury for everyone, everywhere: from sunrise until sunset.

Step outside. Feel the warmth on your skin and enjoy the presence of your loved ones. At Manutti we believe in the beauty of outdoor spaces and their power to connect us. Our pieces are designed to inspire you to spend unforgettable moments outside with friends and family, at any time of the day, from dawn to dusk.

Manutti pieces are more than furniture. They are the canvas on which you'll create cosy and congenial moments. They are for everyone, every moment, and wherever in the world you may be. Whether you prefer relaxing besides the cool crisp water of your private pool, in the salty dunes near the shore, or want to bask in the serenity of nature or the vibrant atmosphere of the city: we've cultured several styles that will defy your expectations. Just sit back, relax, and get inspired.

The common themes in our designs: innovation, craftsmanship and an uncompromising eye for quality.

That's why our exclusive pieces are true originals and destined to become icons. At the same time, we keep your everyday needs in mind. Each design is well-considered and consciously aligns with the practical aspects of life. We have added a graceful element of softness that will bring you into harmony with the present moment. A Manutti moment is designed to last a lifetime. Make sure you fill it with warmth, luxury and pleasure.

Designers'

Stephane De Winter

Transcending beauty through artisanship

Designer of Muyu, Yiko, Torsa, Zendo Sense, Kobo and Radoc

Good design goes hand in hand with usability and comfort. That is what inspires Manutti founder and head designer Stephane De Winter (1968). He created and guards the unique Manutti DNA: smart design, craftsmanship and a profound sense of quality. This is reflected in his Kobo, Radoc and Zendo Sense collections, featuring a mix of refined, classic designs with a contemporary twist. Always receptive to the customer's needs and in line with the latest trends, his team transcends itself to go beyond beauty.

Brent De Meulenaere

Where nature inspires innovation

Designer of Ogado

Belgian designer Brent De Meulenaere (1997) brings a fresh perspective to furniture design, blending his passion for natural materials with an innovative approach to function and form. With a background in Interior Design and Product Design, Brent is committed to integrating design with research and development. For him, the creative process goes beyond aesthetics, ensuring each design is both unique and practical to produce.

Metrica Design Studio

International classics with an elegant twist

Designer of Flows

The Milanese design studio Metrica, headed by Lucio Quinzio Leonelli and Robin Rizzini, brings a touch of Italian flair to Manutti. Internationally acclaimed for its exclusive mixture of creation and technical management, the studio's designs are elegant and meticulously crafted. The collaboration with Manutti resulted in the Flows collection, a balancing act between traditional aesthetics and a unique, elegant shape.

Robin Hapelt

Playful design from the heart

Designer of Sandua

For the Swiss-German designer, Robin Hapelt (1990), great design doesn't just have to look good, it should also make people happy. That's why all of his pieces exude contrast and humour. Hapelt is now residing in Southeast Asia, which he calls "a very exciting and inspiring part of the world." Much of his work reflects the Asian culture, particularly his use of Oriental weaving techniques and materials like rattan and bamboo. He makes his debut designing for Manutti with the ethnic-inspired Sandua collection, for which he spent many hours experimenting himself with different weaving patterns and techniques.

Gerd Couckhuyt

Inspired by life

Designer of Elements & Mood

Inspired by the beauty of everyday life, Gerd Couckhuyt (1970) is an award-winning Belgian designer whose Manutti collections breathe subtlety, elegance and fun. The Mood collection comes with a touch of light and translucence. The enticing forms and alluring architecture of the Elements collection earned Manutti the 'Red Dot Award for Product Design'.

Matthew Townsend

Establishing timeless connections

Designer of Cobi & Sunrise

After studying industrial design in Montreal, American designer Matthew Townsend (1992) pursued his passion for furniture design by moving to Florence, Italy. Aesthetics and functionality come together perfectly as Matthew constantly finds creative new ways to use materials in his designs. "Establishing a strong personal connection between user and the design is what makes a piece timeless" says Matthew, who believes that good design comes down to the user's experience and perception of that piece. The Cobi coffee table collection was his first design for Manutti. With Sunrise, Matthew has created a completely new and unique collection consisting of sofa's, chairs, tables and loungers. The use of fabric and textile as part of the furniture frames creates an intriguing yet balanced contrast.

Koen Van Extergem

Great in simplicity

Designer of Air

Through his elegant minimalistic style, Belgian designer Koen Van Extergem (1989) has brought a sense of purity and lightness to Manutti. He studied product development and furniture design and joined the Manutti design team in 2013. Koen is the creative mind behind the Air collection, a durable outdoor table collection meticulously crafted. His designs perfectly reflect his talent for blending elegance, warmth and minimalism.

Lionel Doyen

Beyond the aesthetics

Designer of Kumo & Solid

With a practical understanding of product usability and an eye for fine details, Lionel Doyen (1978) takes a slightly different approach to design and development. Specialised in service, product and industrial design, the French designer aims to create on a more personal and experimental level, always keeping the customer's experience in mind. His style can best be described as innovative and timeless, as he consistently looks beyond mere aesthetic appeal. He designed the Kumo & Solid collections for Manutti, blending design with everyday comfort. In 2013, he launched his own design studio.

A photograph of a modern outdoor furniture set in a garden. Two light-colored wooden armchairs with beige cushions and brown throw pillows are positioned on a gravel surface. A small, round wooden side table with three legs sits between them, holding a small white teapot and two cups. The background is filled with lush greenery, including a large tree with dense foliage on the left and various shrubs and lavender plants. A stone wall is visible on the far right edge. The word "Collections" is written in a large, white, serif font across the middle of the image.

Collections

Manutti icons

Every Manutti piece is created with passion, purpose and attention to aesthetical and technical detail. While we take pride in all our collections, there are a few that stand out above the rest due to their unique design, technical sophistication or simply because they never cease to intrigue us. They are both avant-garde and timeless, and the embodiment of true outdoor luxury. They are Manutti icons.
